1 Programme Aims

- 1.1 The British Academy has been funded by the Department of Science, Innovation & Technology (DSIT) to support the Innovation Fellowships.
- 1.2 The objective of the Global Innovation Fellowships is to provide opportunities to UK-based early- and mid-career researchers from across the humanities and social sciences to develop their skills, networks and careers in the creative and cultural, public, private and policy sectors to address challenges that require innovative approaches and solutions. Through the Global Innovation Fellowships, researchers in the SHAPE community will be supported to create new and deeper links beyond academia, so enabling knowledge mobilisation and translation, as well as individual skills development.
- 1.3 This is the third call for this programme, offering opportunities for Global Innovation Fellowship award holders to embed themselves and be based in the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace (specifically in the USA, with possibilities to engage in other regions as appropriate). Awards from the previous round can be seen here.
- 1.4 In a complex, changing, and increasingly contested world, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace generates strategic ideas and independent analysis, supports diplomacy, and trains the next generation of international scholar-practitioners to help countries and institutions take on the most difficult global problems and safeguard peace. It is recognized as the leading global foreign policy think tank. Carnegie's experts are thinkers and doers from diverse disciplines and perspectives working together across borders on issues such as democracy, technology, and climate change with deep expertise and understanding of regional contexts in Asia, Africa, Europe, India, the Middle East, and Russia and Eurasia.
- 1.5 The aim is to have a mutually beneficial partnership between the fellowship award holder and Carnegie with each able to take advantage of fresh perspectives and expand their networks and reach. It will enable the award holder to strengthen and create new links across policy and academia, enabling knowledge mobilisation and translation, and the opportunity to develop new approaches and solutions to policy challenges through providing a different perspective.

The Academy is offering up to two 1-year fellowships hosted in Carnegie's offices in Washington DC, Singapore or Beirut. These are offered as awards for up to £150,000 for 12 months in duration (with Full Economic Costing at 80%).

2 Person Specification and Applicant Eligibility

- 2.1 The British Academy is inviting applications from early-career and mid-career researchers who are working on the themes outlined below who could contribute fresh perspectives to the specified challenges. Please note that applications from independent researchers cannot be accepted in this round of the scheme.
- 2.2 Applicants might have expertise from a range of disciplinary, conceptual and methodological perspectives, including analytical, policy and practical perspectives.
- 2.3 Eligible applicants must be ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom with a current long-term appointment that will continue for at least as long as the period of the award. You must be an early-career or mid-career researcher based at an institution in the UK (e.g., a Higher Education Institution [HEI] or Independent Research Organisation [IRO]), from disciplines within the Humanities and Social Sciences that is listed as an approving-organisation in the British Academy's grant management system, Flexi-Grant. This institution will be issued the Terms and Conditions of the award, if successful.
- 2.4 This is an opportunity for award holders to form new collaborations and draw on the insights this brings to inform, influence and develop their future development. We seek open-mindedness, a willingness to explore new perspectives and to experiment with innovative approaches. You will have an appetite for working across academia, policy and practice, and will demonstrate a commitment to being genuinely challenge driven and dedicated to integrating the perspectives, needs and priorities of the partner organisation.
- 2.5 All applicants should strongly consider the potential for engagement between academic and non-academic environments and the value this would bring to their career and the value they can bring to the work and purpose of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.
- 2.6 Applicants must also meet the requirements set out below in the 'Working at and with Carnegie' section.
- 2.7 Applicants may not hold more than one British Academy award of a comparable nature at any one time.

- 2.8 Postgraduate students are not eligible to apply for grant support from the Academy, and Applicants are asked to confirm in the personal details section(s) that they are not currently working towards a PhD, nor awaiting the outcome of a viva voce examination, nor awaiting the acceptance of any corrections required by the examiners.

3 Scope of the Fellowship

- 3.1 Applications are invited in any of the following areas.
- 3.2 Sustainability, Climate and Geopolitics. A Fellowship in this area would be based in Washington DC, and focus on the interlocking and existential climate, sustainability and nature-based challenges of our time. Ensuring just transitions whilst tackling climate change and biodiversity loss is key to supporting inclusive economies and societies in the future. This will have major global and regional implications where analysis and insightful ideas that bridge research and policy action are critical to tackling the interlocking climate and ecological crises and pathways to adaptation and mitigation. In addition to identifying key issues for climate/ecological diplomacy, scholars who focus on the geopolitical consequences of climate change and ecological disruption are particularly encouraged to apply.
- 3.3 Global Order and Institutions. A Fellowship in this area would be based in Washington DC and could explore a wide range of challenges and perspectives on global order and disorder, as well as international institutions. There is no single solution to the challenges of global (dis)order. This complexity includes the changing nature of the times, and the values and self-understandings that have often motivated the search for status, for recognition and a different kind of international order emanating in different parts of the world. Analysing this shifting landscape is key to advancing a more peaceful, prosperous, and just world.
- 3.4 South and East Asia: A Fellowship in this area could be based in Washington DC or Singapore to work with Carnegie counterparts on South or East Asia, as well as Southeast Asia. The Fellowship award holder will have strong expertise in either region including in relation to India or China, and particularly their regional and/or global roles. The Fellowship award holder could have expertise in, for example, geopolitical competition, the political economy of the region, domestic political, economic and social dynamics, governance or emerging technology. If the Fellowship award holder is aiming to focus on China then it will be expected they will be based in Singapore with other foci based in Washington DC.

- 3.5 Middle East & North Africa: A Fellowship in this area would work with Carnegie's Middle East Program and could be based in either Washington DC or Beirut focusing on the region's challenges, examining long-term geopolitical trends and propose innovative policy options. The Fellowship award holder will have expertise in the Middle East & North Africa, including the Gulf and Iran, with particular country or thematic specialities related to political, social and economic change are welcome. This could include work related climate change, governance, great power competition, conflict, refugees and displacement, crime and illicit networks, Syria, Israel/Palestine, and civil/military relations. If the Fellowship award holder is aiming to focus on Syria, then it is expected they will be based in Beirut with other foci based in Washington DC.
- 3.6 Security & Defence: A Fellowship in this area could be based in either Brussels or Berlin. Both the threat and actuality of major war once more dominates discussions of global and regional order with defence industries and the political economy underlying defence and security developing accordingly. Some of this change relates to new challenges faced such as new technologies and planetary challenges, however, longstanding logics and dynamics related to competition, rivalry, regime insecurity, nationalism and armed conflict are to the fore as well. A Fellowship award holder in this area will have deep expertise in defence policy and the defence industry and could have particular country, regional or thematic specialities. If the Fellowship award holder is aiming to focus on Russia, then it is expected they will be based in Berlin with any other foci based in Brussels.
- 3.7 There are not any preconceived ideas about the disciplinary background of the award holder, but the applicant will need to demonstrate a solid understanding of the relevant issues, including the applicable policy landscape and the systemic challenges that it faces. Language skills where relevant are desirable but not essential.

4 Working at and with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace

- 4.1 These Fellowships will be fully integrated into the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace structure and are placed within a centre and/or research area focussed team in Carnegie's offices: the award holder will have a line manager and additional support and mentoring will be provided.

- 4.2 Work-planning is a mixture of demand and self-tasking. An indicative list of tasks includes: writing papers and shorter notes, oral briefings for officials and policymakers, meeting external stakeholders and partners, as well as organising and speaking at events. The award holder will agree the outline of a work programme with their Carnegie line manager and team.

It is expected that each award holder will develop a range of outputs, however, it is a requirement that each award holder must complete by the end of their award at least one substantial policy paper in their area of interest of around 2,500-4,000 words accompanied by a policy brief of no more than 1,000 words.

- 4.3 The ability to communicate clearly and succinctly, highlighting policy relevance to non-experts is of importance to all Carnegie's work. So too is the ability to work collaboratively with others and to do so at pace, sometimes delivering to tight deadlines.
- 4.4 The award holder will need to agree to respect Carnegie's values and standards of behaviour and conflict of interest policies and sign an agreement to that effect. Failure to do so may result in the termination of the Fellowship award

5 Duration and Start of a Global Innovation Fellowship

- 5.1 Global Innovation Fellowships are expected to commence by September 2026. An earlier start date of March or April 2026 may be possible, in this case the applicant will need to explain how they will plan and manage their relocation on this faster timeline.
- 5.2 This call is expected to be able to support 1-2 awards.
- 5.3 Awards are expected to run for 1 year.
- 5.4 The cost of relocation, visas and any associated costs for the applicant and their dependants are eligible under this programme

6 Applicant and Award Flexibility

- 6.1 Awards are offered on a Full Economic Costing (FEC) basis. Applicants must enter the costs in the application form, Financial Details section, at The Global Innovation Fellowships are intended to be flexible awards. The following guidelines will normally apply. However, in exceptional circumstances, additional flexibility may be available. Please contact international@thebritishacademy.ac.uk for further information.
- a) Career background and history – The Academy is aware that individuals will have had different opportunities to balance their research with other commitments during their career or may come from diverse or non-traditional career backgrounds. For example, having taken extended leave including parental or medical leave, or having returned to research following time in other roles or having had periods of significant teaching or administrative workload that may have impacted on the applicant's research. There is a question in the application form (the personal statement) that will enable applicants to provide further information so that the Academy can take this into account when assessing applicants' track record.
 - b) Reasonable adjustments – Applications from researchers with disabilities are welcome and encouraged. The Academy will provide adjustments to ensure they can participate fully in the selection process. If an adjustment is required when accessing the application form or for any other part of the application process then please contact international@thebritishacademy.ac.uk. In addition, costs that are required for the researcher to undertake their award will be considered eligible regardless to what is set out in paragraph 40 below. The Academy welcomes any questions applicants may have on this matter. The costs of reasonable adjustments required to support researchers with disabilities will also be an eligible cost throughout the duration of the award.
 - c) Maternity, paternity, shared parental leave, adoptive or extended sick leave - There is provision for maternity, paternity, shared parental leave, adoptive or extended sick leave for the award holder as defined in the UK host organisation's standard organisational policy. An extension will be added to account for any time lost within the original period of the award and an additional amount of time will be added on top for up to 6 months.

- d) Childcare arrangements - Support for the cost of childcare support when undertaking award activity, such as travel for conferences, will be considered as part of the allowable research expenses during the award for the award-holder through the grant. This includes instances where the award holder or staff wish to support their child(ren) themselves, such as travelling with them whilst undertaking their research.
- e) Relocation and visa arrangements - The Academy will cover relocation costs for the award-holder during the award, as well as their dependents. The cost of a visa and any associated costs for the applicant and their dependants are eligible under this programme.
- f) Portability of awards – If the award holder moves UK host organisation before the start or during the award, the award will be moved to the new UK host organisation provided that the new host is an eligible UK-based host organisation.
